Fairly Retires; Duncan And Fournier Promoted By B&A

Millard A. Fairley, assistant to the chief engineer of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad, has retired. He had held various posts in the road's engineering department for the past 44 years. Vinal J. Welch, chief engineer, said that he will be succeeded in his post by Gordon S. Duncan, also of Houlton. Mr. Welch also announced the appointment of

Leo C. Fournier as assistant superintendent of track. Mr. Fairley, a native of Houlton, came with the road as a timekeeper in 1924, subsequently working as a clerk, stock clerk and chief clerk before he became assistant to the chief engineer. He attended Houlton High School, Shaw's Business College and is active in the Masonic orders and Shrine. He is married and has one son. Mr. Duncan, a native of Fort Fairfield, came to the railroad as assistant engineer in 1957 from Westinghouse Electric Corp. He was made assistant superintendent of track in 1962. Prior to his employment with Westinghouse he had served for two years as a

Schools Plan Re-Opening Monday With Harvest Nearly Completed

Schools in School Administrative District 29, comprising the towns of Houlton, Monticello, Littleton and Hammond Plantation, are scheduled to re-open on schedule next Monday, after one of the most favorable harvest seasons in this area for the past several years.

Classes were discontinued September 13 to enable the school children to assist the farmers with the harvesting of the annual potato crop as they have done every year since World War Two.

This is the first time in many years that the harvest recess has been held to a three-week break. Last year, with many days of inclement weather, school closing continued into the fifth week on a day-to-day basis, with the pupils attending school on rainy days and assisting with the harvest on other days.

Roger R. Randall, chairman of the School Board for SAD 29, stated Tuesday, "With information available at this time, the major portion of the potato crop should be harvested with a couple of good days this week and very probably an extension of the recess will not be necessary."

SAD 29, comprising the towns of Mount Chase, Patten, Sherman and Stacyville, closed for the harvest September 18, later than SAD 29, but due to the satisfactory weather their harvesting should be complete by this Friday. Superintendent

Harold Fenlason said that originally schools were supposed to stay closed until October 14 but, due to the harvest completion, plans possibly will be considered to open earlier if they can contact all of their teachers. However, arrangements will be announced later in the week when an exact re-opening date can be determined.

Superintendent John Ruth of Union 114 was not available for information Tuesday. However, a member of his office staff said that schools in the Union were re-opening next Monday. This Union comprises the towns of Island Falls, Oakfield, Smyrna, Merrill, Dyer Brook and Crystal Schools closed in this area September 13.

Union 117 schools are also scheduled to re-open October 7 according to Superintendent Earle Cooper. This Union comprises schools in Amity, Cary, Hodgdon, Linneus, New Limerick, Ludlow and Haynesville. Schools closed in this area on September 18, making a total of just two and one-half weeks for the harvest completion with the aid of the school children.

Rotary Club Plans Annual Auction November 25-26-27

The 13th annual Rotary Radio Auction will be conducted November 25, 26, and 27, a Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, according to Rotary Club President Marshall B. Hammond.

General chairman for the auction will be the Club's vice president, Malcolm York, and all Rotarians will assist in the three-day event.

The auction, which annually produces about $5,000 for a charitable project, will again utilize the facilities of radio station WHOU on each of the three nights. The auction room will be established in the Northland Hotel.

The largest fund raising event of the year for the Rotary Club, the radio auction in past years has served to assist the local hospitals, the new Ricker College library, a scholarship fund at Ricker College in memory of the late Oscar French, the proposed but yet to be realized indoor swimming pool for the community, and the school for the retarded.

Mr. York said that the recipient of this year's auction funds is expected to be announced at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club next Monday. Members voted on a number of potential projects at this week's meeting, and the final decision is to be made by the Club's board of directors.

Chairmen and members of the various committees that will work with Mr. York during the auction will also be announced within the next few days.

For the auction, Rotarians solicit merchandise and services from businesses throughout the area, and auction them off using the facilities of WHOU. A battery of telephones will be installed in the Elm Room of the Northland Hotel, where Club members will receive and record the bids on the items.

An auction booklet, listing all of the items to be offered during the three days, will be distributed to residents throughout the area just prior to the auction itself.

GOP Will Open Headquarters Saturday Night

Republican headquarters on Market Square will be officially opened in brief ceremonies this Saturday evening at 7:30.

James D. Carr, chairman of the Houlton Republican Town Committee, said that GOP candidates from throughout the area, who will be listed on the ballot for the November general election, will be in attendance for the opening.

Coffee will also be served as the candidates meet with the public. Mr. Carr said.

Republican headquarters will be located next to the F. A. Peabody Insurance Company, in Market Square.

Inman Rejoins Ricker As Head Of Development

Appointment of Harold H. Inman as development officer at Ricker College was announced today by college president C. Worth Howard. The appointment marks Mr. Inman's return to Ricker since he taught for 16 years at the Institute and Junior College. At various times during those years he also served as principal, director of admissions and alumni secretary.

Mr. Inman received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of Maine, and before joining the Ricker staff taught for three years at Houlton High School. He resigned his post at Ricker in 1952 to enter the insurance business. For the past several years he has been division manager with Union Mutual Life Insurance Company and will retain his license in order to be able to serve his clients.

Mr. Inman is widely known throughout Maine and the neighboring areas. He has been active in Rotary International and has served as District Governor. Presently he is Rotary Information and Extension Counselor, the first time anyone from this district has been so named.

He is a director of the Houlton Savings Bank, a member of Anah Temple and all Masonic bodies, the Meduxnekeag Club, and Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi honorary fraternities.

Denny Shute Night Here October 10

Elden H. (Denny) Shute

Elden H. (Denny) Shute Jr., of Farmington, Republican candidate to the U. S. House of Representatives, will be the guest speaker October 10 at a dinner meeting in Houlton sponsored by the Republican Town Committee. The dinner will be held at the Ricker Commons on the college campus at 7:15 o'clock.

James D. Carr, Town Chairman, will serve as master of ceremonies for what has been termed, "Denny Shute Night" and Aroostook County candidates for various offices will be introduced by attorney Lynwood E. Hand. Mr. Shute will be presented to the guests by George B. Barnes, Esq.

Cyril M. Joly, Jr., chairman of the Republican State Committee will be in attendance as well as many other dignitaries from

Adult Students Will Sign Up Monday Night

Registration for the first semester of Adult Education Courses to be conducted this fall and winter at Houlton High School will be held next Monday evening at the high school auditorium.

Elwood Scott, director, said that registration will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, and that classes will begin Thursday, October 10. He said that although a tentative schedule of classes has been arranged, courses will be offered in any subject area provided at least 10 students are signed up for a course.

Two classes are scheduled for each Monday and Thursday evening with the first class to begin at 7 o'clock and close at 8:30. The second class will begin at 8:30 and close at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Scott said that persons taking courses for credit must attend 28 of the 30 classes during the semester as a minimum. Persons interested in taking courses must be 18 years of age and their class must have graduated from high school.

A fee of $5 per course will be charged. Those persons who have registered in advance, and have paid their fees, need not attend the registration next Monday night, Mr. Scott said.

The tentative schedule of class offerings is as follows: First period classes, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.: Typing 1, Shorthand 1, Business Math, Bookkeeping 11, Welding 1, Woodworking, Business Machines, Sewing, U.S. History, Citizenship and Automotive Electrical.

Second class period, from 8:30 to 10 p.m.: English 10, English 12, Typing 11, Shorthand 11, Bookkeeping 1, Blueprint Reading, Sheetmetal, Sewing, Psychology and Welding 1.

Two of these courses, Automotive Electrical and Citizenship, are new and are being offered as non-credit courses. Citizenship is designed mainly to help people who are not American citizens to earn their citizenship.

All courses will be offered twice a week, on Mondays and Thursdays, beginning October 10, excluding normal school holidays. The first semester will continue through January 30.

Q . . . Do we need revaluation? Three houses were sold in Houlton during this year, one for $7500., one for $15,500 and the other for $19,000. The tax bills came out and the bills for each house was exactly the same, $368. Don't believe it? I'll prove it to anyone that wishes to know. What do you think about the situation?

Tax Conscious

A . . . I have no direct statement to make on this remark as I think your letter explains itself very nicely. These inequities can be seen throughout the town and of course the only way to overcome these is to have each piece of property valued for its exact worth. Maybe soon some of the highest taxpayers that have been against the process of a revaluation will realize that a revaluation would be to their benefit. NOTE TO READERS - I spoke with the writer of the above letter and the statement contained therein is exactly the case, one piece of property was overvalued and the other two were undervalued, somewhere along the line.

Q . . . Could you tell me who is responsible for the litter in the area of the new shopping center? Could you tell me why the lights at the shopping center are not on half the time? Why doesn't the Town of Houlton have a line through each side of the square to let people know there are two lanes of traffic there?

Just Wondering

A . . . In regard to your first two questions I am afraid that I can't answer them, as it is not up to me to question the responsibility in a private enterprise. Maybe those responsible will see the letter and take a hint. As to your last question, I think that is a great idea and it sure would stop those that drive right down the middle of the two lanes. It is probably too late in the season to attend to this now, but let's get after the town in the spring and see if this can be done. Thanks for the suggestion.

Q . . . What is the staging doing beside the Court House? Are they painting the trim or what?

Just Noticed

A . . . County Commissioner Frank Hopper tells me that glass block windows are being installed on the West and East sides of the Superior Court room. The old windows had rotted considerably, losing panes of glass, so it was necessary for the installation. The East side is completed and work is now being done on the West side. Incidentally, while talking with Mr. Hopper he told me that the County is presently preparing a deed for the Garrison Hill property to the Town of Houlton, reserving the Civil Defense building, the cement markers on the meridian line, the aerial pole and a right of way. He said that all buildings erected there in the future would be made of logs so that all buildings would be compatible with the present Civil Defense building.

Do you have a question or comment concerning the Town of Houlton? If so, write a note to Discover Houlton, % Pioneer Times and we will endeavor to answer it. We do request, however, that you sign your name, which will be withheld on request.

HIGHEST AWARD — Rollin R. Smith, left, is shown receiving the Gallatin Award, the U. S. Treasury Department's highest civilian award, from U. S. Customs Port Director G. A. Chalson. Mr. Smith retired September 30 following 42 years of service as Supervisory Customs Inspector. He had been stationed at Houlton since 1947. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will now make their home at 60 Fountain Lane, South Weymouth, Mass. A party on his behalf was held at Parkview on September 20 with more than 40 Customs and Immigration officers and friends present.

TIPS & TRICKS for TEENS

Curly tops are tops in fall hair styles, and the look depends on pin curls or smaller rollers for the proper effect. For lasting curls, use a setting gel or lotion after shampooing. Apply to towel-dried hair. To master the art of pin curling, keep these tips in mind: make sure hair ends are neatly tucked into the center of each curl... use end papers to keep uneven ends neatly in place... for even drying, don't bunch too much hair into each curl.

The falling leaves are your cue to colors for fall, according to the fashion forecasts. To go with these autumn tones, the beauty authorities at Avon suggest lipstick and blusher in complimentary colors. Choose a coppery coral lipstick and rosy blusher if you have cool skin tones, or select a coppery peach lipstick and tawny blusher if your skin has undertones of warm colors.

Brighten up your school books with custom covers, made from gaily printed self-adhesive coverings, wallpaper, gift wraps or fabric remnants. Key the design to the subject — geometrics for math, patriotic motifs for history, kitchen prints for home economics. Or use plain colors and create your own designs with decals and colored tape. You might plan a special cover to be used as a signature by a school or group of your friends.

Link up with fall by adding a chain handle to last year's school handbag. For a short handle, you can adapt chain accessories such as bracelets, necklaces, even a dog's collar. A handle made from a chain belt or long necklace can do double duty: worn long for a shoulder bag, or doubled and shortened to carry in your hand. You can add color to the chains with special metal paint or spray enamel.

Moving Day For Rio Grande

Putting the Rio Grande river back where it belongs would appear to most people to be much too formidable a task to undertake. But not for Mexico Compania Constructora S. A., a leading Mexican contractor headquartered in Mexico City.

With a fleet of six giant Allis-Chalmers earthmovers, the contractor has done just that — digging a new channel in the right place to put the river back.

Nearly one million cubic yards of moist, heavy sand, deposited over the decades by the Rio Grande river (Or Rio Bravo, in Mexico), are being moved in the process of forming the new Adolfo Lopez Mateos Canal, which will slice between Juarez, Mexico, and El Paso, Texas. By fall, the contractor hopes to be ready to switch the Rio Grande into the new canal, where, as the international boundary between Mexico and the United States, it properly should be.

For more than a century, Ciudad Juarez and El Paso have been in this precarious position, situated on opposite sides of the border at the extreme northwestern tip of Texas where the Rio Grande snakes its way down from New Mexico. Since 1853, the two cities watched the river gouge out three completely different channels.

Result: by 1962 the meandering stream had bequeathed some 400 acres of land, called "El Chamisal," to El Paso. "But in this age of earthmoving behemoths, even intangible boundaries like international boundaries can be set aright, especially between friendly, understanding neighbors like Mexico and the United States.

Map locates new channel (broken line) excavated for construction of the Adolfo Lopez Mateos Canal.

At an official ceremony last October, President Diaz Ordaz of Mexico accepted return of the land from President Johnson by cheering crowds and fluttering blizzards of confetti.

Ingeniero Frederico Schroeder, project engineer for the contractor, had already brought in his crew and heavy equipment to move more than a million tons of sand to relocate the Rio Grande. The project has been the scene of intense activity, eight hours or more a day and six days a week.

Goal of the project — diverting the water of the Rio Grande, or Rio Bravo as it is known south of the border, to mark the new boundary — is a matter of moving earth and moving it fast. The earthmovers provide an impressive sight coming down the excavation slope Indian file, kicking up tons of dust as they approach the new Paso del Norte bridge still lined up perfectly despite their speed and the rough terrain. They disappear under the bridge and then reappear at the other end on their way to pick up yet another load.

Loaded to the gills and lined up Indian file, this fleet of Allis-Chalmers earthmovers tote away more than 25 tons of sand and dirt from the new river bottom forming the relocated channel of the Rio Grande.

Other crews stream out of the batch plant nearby to handle the 100,000 cubic yards of concrete lining for the canal.

A bird's-eye view clearly reveals the strip marking the excavation for the new canal around the pie-shaped wedge comprising El Chamisal, just west of Cordova Island. Visible, too, is the gap formed by houses torn down in the previous housing project. But even more apparent is the fact that the new border is a gigantic step forward, due in large measure to the efforts of the industrious crews working on the project under the leadership of Ing. Schroeder.

Putting-you-firsts:

(A quick tour of some of the thoughtful new features the 1969 Chevrolets offer that other cars in Chevrolet's field don't.)

Headlight washers

You push the windshield washer knob and hold it, and your headlights come clean.

Fluid is diverted to two jet nozzles at each light lens. (Outer lights only on duals.)

The spray removes up to 80% of accumulated dirt. The feature is standard on 1969 Corvettes. It comes with the hidden headlights available on Camaro, Caprice and Kingswood Estate Wagons. It is available on all other models except Corvair.

Heated glass

In a moment your rear window will self-defrost.

Because we've built onto it a network of tiny ceramic strips capable of heating the entire surface.

Fog and frost disappear quickly and quietly. You just flick a switch.

The heated rear window is available on the 1969 Caprice Coupe and Impala Custom Coupe.

Pushbutton tire chains

You press a button on the instrument panel and the rear tires get a shot of "liquid tire chain."

You spin your wheels once, wait a moment, and you're off with traction you wouldn't believe possible on slick ice, or packed snow.

Available on all 1969 big Chevrolets.

Steering wheel lock

When you own a car as desirable as the 1969 Chevrolet, you don't take chances.

When you leave it, you lock it. Not just the doors.

You lock the ignition, steering wheel and transmission lever, too.

Our new lock on the steering column takes care of all that.

Standard on all 1969 Chevrolets, Chevelles, Chevy Novas, Camaros and Corvettes.

Sorry, car thieves.

Power steering plus

The 1969 Caprice, Impala and Camaro are available with a new type of power steering.

Variable-ratio power steering.

What it does is give you faster steering with fewer turns of the wheel.

Variable-ratio power steering is particularly helpful in short, full turns.

And parking becomes unbelievably easy. You'll see.

Walk-in wagons

The tailgate swings open like a door on most of our 1969 station wagons.

Which in itself is no big deal. But wait, there's more.

We've built a concealed step into the rear bumper.

You simply step up, over, and in.

(The way we build our wagons, you can do it without bumping your head, and without acrobatics.)

Walk into a wagon soon at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Elks To Honor Little League Champions At Lodge Tuesday

This year as in past seasons the Houlton Lodge of Elks will honor its little league team in the local baseball circuit. The banquet will be held Tuesday starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Elks lodge. The members will handle the menu with plenty of hot dogs and hamburgers along with soda pop for this year's little league champions.

The Elks team in this 10-team circuit is the town champions of baseball in the little league ranks and their evening is well deserved by the members, their manager and coach. The Elks team was managed by Carl Duff, who is in his eighth season in little league action, while the coach was Fred White, also very active in Houlton's baseball program.

This championship team has

Russell Wins Spud Speedway Semi Feature

Ned Russell of Houlton, driving his No. 312, captured his heat and then went on to win the 10-lap semi feature Sunday afternoon at Spud Speedway in Caribou.

Graydon Adams of Lime-stone won the featured event in the stock car program, with Eddie Gilman placing second and Ernie Levesque taking third place.

Lady luck wasn't riding with some of the stockers Sunday, and qualifying heats saw some of the high point cars sitting by the wayside with blown tires and broken axles.

Other heat winners during the afternoon were Phil Grass of Mars Hill and Harold Adams of New Sweden.

The Elks team won the American league honors this summer for the third straight time and copped the town title for the second straight year. This will also entitle the Elks team to have their name engraved on the Adrian Bishop Memorial trophy for the second straight season.

The winners of the National league this year, O'Donnell's Express, held their cook-out at Community Park shortly after the season finished in August. This marked the first time that O'Donnell Express had ever won top honors in their league, the National. The Elks won the town title by defeating O'Donnell's Express, 13 to 2.

The Elks will be back in the thick of the baseball action next year with ten little leaguers back in uniform as the defending league and town champions.

Ricker Tips Bengals 4-1 In Soccer

The Ricker Bulldogs outbooted the Fort Kent Bengals 4-1 Saturday in soccer at Community Park in Houlton. Fort Kent opened the scoring seven minutes into the first quarter when Dick Poul-in booted in the only goal of the day for the Bengals.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs came back quickly to tie the score when Farouk Bokhari scored from 20 feet out. At the close of the first half the score rested at 1-1.

In the third quarter the Bulldogs took command, scoring two goals by Hap Gran-quist and Skip Harwood to provide a comfortable lead. Ricker closed out the game in the fourth quarter when Fred Clark booted in the final goal and put the game on ice.

The Bulldogs remain undefeated with a 2-0-1 record.

Hilltop Ladies Will Open Early

A bowling meeting was held Sunday night at the Hilltop Lanes and captains of the 10 teams in the Thursday night ladies league decided to start their bowling season October 10.

This league was slated to start October 17, but with the potato harvest almost done the captains voted to start earlier than planned, according to this year's chairman Willa Rockwell. The ladies Friday night league is still seeking teams and their season is expected to start October 18.

The Thursday night teams and their captains are as follows: Ivey's Motel, Barbara Shaw; Guttersnippers, Carol Cottle; Bowlerettes, Gladys McGuire; Rejects, Willa Rockwell; Haselnut, Hazel Carroll; Boston Store, Leanne Toner; Stewart's Store, Dorcen Stewart; Bluffers, Jean Cunitte; Boutiller's Florist, Millie Reese; and Bossie's Store, Doris Hisom.

Pioneer Times Again Plans Deer Survey

The Pioneer Times Sports department will mail out deer survey cards to the tagging stations in the coverage area next week. The deer season will open October 15 and tagging stations are asked to send their cards in each week on Sunday or Mondays so the report can be made up for our weekly readers.

We would appreciate any comments on these cards from our tagging stations concerning the size of deer and any other information which would be of interest to our weekly readers.

It's Nearly That Time For Hunters Breakfasts

It's getting near that time ... the deer hunting season in Aroostook County. Every year the Pioneer Times tries to keep pace with the different clubs and groups that put on an early morning breakfast for the hunters on opening day. This year we will try to mention a few of the morning menus if some of the groups will send this information along to our sports department. Be sure to mention any prizes that are being offered.

Highlights In Sports by Larry Reece

Everything was going all right and then BANG. That's the way the members of the Houlton Boxing Club felt after Monday night's meeting. At the meeting it was discovered that insurance, taxes, plus more financial assistance was badly needed before the October fight card could be held in the Shiretown.

The members, who have shown an interest in this program begin to check out a few details and then the bomb was dropped which has presently stopped the fight card.

In past fight cards all these details were handled by outside fight promoters, but with this new group no arrangements were made early enough to allow them to hold a fight card in October, with this outside group.

The fight card had been scheduled with boxers coming from Woodstock, Ellsworth, East Millinocket, Mattawamkeag, Millinocket and the local area to fill eight or ten bouts. A lot of work has gone into this program and it looks at this writing that it was all in vain, but one has to at least put Joe Barlock Sr. on the back for trying to start this amateur boxing program once again in the local area.

It's not too pleasant a task to inform our weekly readers that the fight card is off, but that's not as bad as the work which is lost by the local members who tried to stage at least two more fight cards in this area.

Presently the local members are trying to get outside help in handling this fight card, which would help solve some of their problems as promoters, but at this writing nothing has been heard concerning the date or if any fight cards will be held in Houlton.

Pheasant Hunting Opens

The bird season officially opened Tuesday morning in this section of Maine and the ardent hunters were out in the fields early in search of their game. This year the birds should be good, especially Pheasants, as the local fish and game club raised over 375 birds this summer. This figure matched by the State gave the local club better than 775 to release in the areas.

The local fish and game club was sent 400 birds, but some of these died during the raising period.

The hunting season in this area would be a lot worse if it wasn't for the efforts put into the raising of these Pheasants every year by local fish and game club members.

Have You Any Old Pictures?

In recent issues of this newspaper we have printed two old baseball pictures and were pleased to do so for our readers. During the past week we have been asked by several local citizens if we had any more of these photos to print and our answer was NO. We would like to have more of these old pictures, mainly sports photos, such as football, baseball, track, basketball or any team picture pertaining to sports. We printed one with all the names, while another picture had only four of the 11 players identified at the time. Shortly after the paper was out Houlton's Jack McKay came into the office and identified the other seven.

Bowling Leagues

Most of the bowling leagues in the area will be starting up in the near future and the Pioneer Times will be pleased to print all the league standings and high individual bowlers and records. These standings should be in to the Pioneer Times office no later than Monday night.

In past seasons with better than 140 league teams in weekly lane action a lot of typesetting time has to go into printing these different leagues, so to make the work easier on our capable staff we would like to have ALL the standings in on a Monday deadline.

It's World Series Time

Today marks the start of the world series of baseball and it pits the American league winners Detroit against the defending world champion St. Louis Cardinals.

Last year it was the Boston Red Sox who put the world series action into seven games and this year it's been mentioned that five games will wind it up with the Cards winning. Being an ardent Detroit fan along with George Bagnall of the local post office we want the Tigers to win, but the Cardinals will be tough. It's been 25 years since the Detroit Tigers have clinched a pennant in American league and I believe George has been a loyal fan that long. As for myself just in the past 10 years. Last year the Tigers finished second to the Red Sox who had gone for a decade or two before winning their pennant honors, but this year it is all Detroit and they will have at least two rooters in the Shiretown.

Short Sports

The present State of Maine candlepin bowling champion, Charlie Milan of Bangor, won his second straight match on T.V. Friday night as he defeated Millinocket's Charlie Noddy by 32 pins, 363 to 331. The show is seen on WEMT on Friday's starting at 7:30 p.m. Milan will meet Bud White of Hermon this Friday with White getting a chance to pick up $125.00 if he beats the State champion. ... Spud Speedway in Caribou will race three more Sundays according to a recent report. ... The stock car action at this popular hot topped track is slated for the remainder of the fall season on Sundays, starting at 2 p.m. ... The Maine harness racing circuit moves this week to Topsham for their annual fall fair. ... Clayton Dickson of Debec, N.B., will have his steeds ready to go behind the mobile starting gate. ... The annual little league night given by the members of the local lodge of Elks honoring their Elks little league team will be held Tuesday. ... The Elks men's bowling league will start its pin season Monday night. ... The State of Maine high school basketball champions, Stearns High of Millinocket, will play the Houlton Shiretowners January 7 and January 31. ... Next week it's back to school and soon basketballs will fill the air at the gyms. ... Hodgdon High School this past summer received a new overhauling on their gym floor, which will make the playing surface a lot better when the action starts. ... The annual Potato Classic at Ricker College is slated for the first week in December. ... Kay Young and Rena Young are this year's co-chairmen of the Elks ladies afternoon bowling league. ... Harness racing will continue this week with an eight-dash card slated for Friday night with posttime set at 7:15 p.m., American time. ... There is a possibility that races will be held next week on Tuesday and Friday nights.

Amateur Boxing Card Postponed

A meeting was held Monday night for the members of the Houlton Boxing Club to discuss the up-coming fight card in the Shiretown. At this meeting several problems came up concerning the amateur fight card and according to the members it has been postponed.

The fights were first slated for the Putnam Gym October 12 but had to be moved ahead on account of the yearly Ricker Homecoming which is planned that day and evening at RICKER College. The fights were moved to October 26 at the Putnam gym, then at the Monday night meeting it was decided that the Houlton club needed more time to complete its paper work pertaining to the fights and fighters during one of these fight cards.

At the meeting it was voted to call for a temporary postponement and keep the October 26 date in mind. Former fight cards in the Shiretown have been handled by an outside promoter who had insurance, licenses and extra equipment for this type of a program. When the final countdown was made Monday night, the need for more financial assistance was the main concern of the local group.

Present plans have been put into motion concerning this fight card which is all ready to go later this month if these problems can be ironed out by the local promoters. Between six and eight bouts have been scheduled and this week boxers will be contacted and asked to wait until the problems have been solved.

New Pin Group Gains Support Of Four Towns

The formation of a new bowling association in Aroostook County is gaining interest with four of the six towns and cities in the County expressing a desire to join. Larry Reece, manager of the Hilltop Lanes, started plans for this type of a bowling association two weeks ago and at this writing Presque Isle, Fort Kent and Madawaska along with the Hilltop Lanes are eager to start this new association. Van Buren and Caribou are the remaining two and if a reply comes in the near future from these two places a meeting will be held later this month in Caribou.

The association would give bowlers from this section of Maine a chance at the State title, which it hasn't had for several seasons. The State is presently divided into an Eastern and Western section with bowling champions coming from each area during the yearly roll-offs for State of Maine titles. The formation of this new bowling association in Aroostook County would give this area at least one team and an Aroostook County single champion in the men's division a chance to compete for State titles as well as these yearly roll-offs.

Plans are also underway, if the men's association is formed, to start a program next year in the ladies division.

Charlton First; Ricker Harriers Bow To Middies

The Maine Maritime harriers out-paced the Bulldogs of Ricker on Saturday by a score of 20-41. Ricker took first place in the four-mile event when Rand Charlton crossed the finish line in 22 minutes and 24 seconds. The Middies took the next five places to capture the victory. Joe Grant, former star at Houlton High, was the Middies leader.

The summary: 1. Randy Charlton (R) 21:24; 2. Joe Grant (M) 21:49; 3. Clay Nowell (M) 21:54; 4. Ismael Sheken (M) 21:56; 5. Bob Delambilly (M) 22:33; 6. Dennis Webb (M) 22:38; 7. John Hills (M) 22:44; 8. Ray Lines (R) 23:07; 9. Peter Conroy (R) 23:45; 10. Bob Carroll (M) 23:49.

Cossaboom To Wear Distinctive Service Ribbon In Vietnam

Master Sergeant George E. Cossaboom, son of Mrs. Mollie Cossaboom of 62 Main street, Freeport, is a member of a unit that has earned the Presidential Unit Citation.

Sergeant Cossaboom, an aircraft maintenance technician in the 14th Special Operations Wing at Pleiku AB, Vietnam, will wear the distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the diversified Air Force organization.

His unit was cited for its extraordinary heroism, exceptional gallantry and outstanding performance of duty in action against enemy forces in Southeast Asia from March 1966 to March 1967.

The sergeant attended Freeport High School. His wife, Teresa, is the daughter of Mrs. Adolph Wiggins of Houlton, and Clair Scanlon of Sherman Mills.

Youth Council Elects Hickey New President

At a recent meeting of the Recreation Youth Council the following officers were elected to serve for 1968 - 69: President, Pat Hickey, vice president, Corrine Lynds, secretary, Peg Rutledge, treasurer, Tim Coleman, social chairman, Martha McKay.

The youth council is made up of 16 members from grades 9 through 12 and each year new members are elected to replace those who have moved away or any who do not wish to serve their full term.

The new members are Kathy Kirlin, Marcia Chapman, Trevor Coleman and Kevin Fitzpatrick, all freshmen members.

Other members are Jerry York, Dave Rutledge, Paula Chapman, Dave Wilson, Cathy Carlton, Gwendolyn Rush, Mark Anderson. The duties of this group are to work closely with recreation director to provide a social program for the school age youth.

This year's plans include entering a float in the Chamber of Commerce parade and assisting with the Saturday schedule at the center. Other activities will be planned later.

The Maine Department of Mental Health and Correction has granted some $10,000 to the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Maine to finance the instruction of local school personnel in the implementing of sex education courses as part of the school curriculum. A total of 18 workshops will be held throughout the state with some 60 communities indicating an interest. The sessions will be for teachers, supervisors and administrators.

Recreation Department News

The Parks and Recreation Department of Houlton has announced that its fall and winter schedule will get under way Monday, October 7.

This year's program will offer a variety of activities for all members of the family. Activities from basketball leagues to a women's gymnastics class and from knitting to furniture refinishing classes.

The game room will also open Monday, October 7. The hours for this will be as follows: Monday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; Tuesday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; Wednesday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; Thursday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m.; Friday, 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. and 6:00 to 9:00 p.m.; Saturday, 9:00 to 12:00, 1:00 to 4:00 and 6:00 to 9:00 p.m.

This time schedule will change when SAD 29 is on vacation, when Houlton High has home basketball games, or when the department has dances on the weekends. The gymnasium will be open for free play for any persons when a scheduled activity is not using it. People using the gym will be asked to wear sneakers while on the floor.

Basketball Leagues will start in the middle or late November, so keep an eye on the paper and listen for an announcement at your school.

The upstairs lounge will be open for use by anyone from the hours 9 a.m. until closing of the building at night. This lounge has excellent facilities for the reading of a book, talking with friends. Smoking is allowed only in this lounge and you must be 16 years of age to do so.

The office hours will be from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. The building is constantly supervised by our staff: Bill MacManus, director, Mrs. M. Crawford, assistant director, Karen Elliott, office assistant; Patsy Williams, baton instructor; Tony Victory, foreman of maintenance crew, and Irvine Gibson, maintenance. A sports director has not been named at this time.

Our staff will also include two or three more people to supervise both our skating rink and our ski tow.

The building will also include areas for many meetings of groups and organizations. Such groups as the Senior Citizens, Button Club, Community Choral Society, Bridge Club, Square Dancers, Camera Club, Senior Extension, State License exams, Unemployment Commission, clinics and many, many others.

Finally I think that each person knows that behind each phase of any operation there is a well developed nucleus. With our department, that would be our Advisory Board. This group, like many other volunteer committees, has put in many hours of work and planning, all for the betterment of the town's recreation program. Our board consists of the following members: Richard Niles, chairman, Peggy Gordon, Mabel Haskell, Marjory Lowrey, Hal Bossie, Milton Lambert and Earle Leavitt.

I personally hope that you will come and use our facilities and participate in our program.

Bob Johnson, a freshman at Ricker College, has offered his services to coordinate a Children's Theatre at the Recreation Department. It is too early to announce definite plans at this writing as complete details have not been made. However, Bob is most enthusiastic about the possibility of working with the youth of the community and comes from Portland where he has rather "grown-up" with the Children's Theatre.

He has a wide background of dramatics and music and has already gained firm support from many who wish to assist him in this very worthwhile venture.

Present plans call for at least one production this year and it may well be "Peter Pan." Announcements will be made through SAD 29 when school resumes next week.

The recreation department is very anxious to add such a worthwhile program and hopes the parents will be willing to cooperate by encouraging their children to try out.

Miss Susan M. Johnson, a graduate of John Baptist High School at Bangor and the University of Maine, has been named assistant director of the General Alumni Association of the university. She replaces Philip McCarthy who has been made assistant dean of men for South Campus. Miss Johnson will assist in the publication of the associations magazine.

Silver Is Named Maine Farmers Sales Manager

Don Silver

Larry A. Thibodeau, president of Maine Farmers Exchange, Presque Isle, has announced the appointment of Don Silver as sales manager.

MFEX, as the organization is popularly known, is a major packager distributor and marketer of Maine table stock, processing and seed potatoes. It's marketing area covers most of the major markets east of the Mississippi. The addition of Silver is to provide expanded services and specialization in the organization for its customers.

A native of Presque Isle, Mr. Silver was graduated from Maine Maritime Academy with a degree in engineering. Prior to joining Maine Farmers Exchange, Mr. Silver was on active duty with the U. S. Navy and served as an advisor in South Vietnam, as First Lieutenant aboard a combat cargo ship and as weapons officer on a destroyer.

He is a member of Rotary International, Board of Directors of the Presque Isle United Fund, B'nai B'rith International Lodge 1289, various Masonic Organizations and the Presque Isle Chamber of Commerce.

He is married to the former Marie Jo Perramond of Toulon, France. The Silver's reside at the Northland Apartments in Presque Isle.

The U. S. is the largest consumer of cotton goods.

Harness Season Given Brief Extension At Connell Park

The officials of the Woodstock Driving Club at Connell Park announced this week that at the request of the horseman harness racing will continue at the Park. The officials had planned to close the raceway down for the season last Thursday night after the races, but at a special meeting the owners and drivers asked for a few more nights of racing.

The harness racing card this week has been set for Tuesday and Friday with post times slated for 7:15 p.m., American time. It's not known at press time if the races will continue next week on Tuesday and Friday nights, but it's expected, according to one of the raceway officials.

Last week's race card on Thursday night produced several top pay-offs with the first daily double worth $51.00 while the second double of the evening paid $64.00. The quinellas were also high with the fifth race winners receiving $55.50 and the eighth race ticket holders picking up $76.30 at the pay-off windows at Connell Park.

The fastest mile of the night was paced by Charlie Dudley owned by Ella Greenlaw of Saint John in the time of 2:10 4/5. John Charles, owned by Houlton's Ted Grant, finished third and fourth in the feature pace of the night. The highest single pay-off for win bettors came in the fifth dash, when Shermer Shirley rewarded her backers with a $12.70 win ticket.

Overlooked in the show betting pool was Woodstock owned Tops Victory who finished third in the sixth race on Thursday's card. Tops Victory, with owner Clair Wilson in the sulky, placed third and no one in the crowd at Connell Park was holding a show ticket. According to one of the officials a single ticket would have been worth $50.00 or more.

The purses had been cut down and a lot of double dashes have been slated for the remaining cards at Connell Park. Frederickton Raceway was expected to race this week, but at the last minute decided to close for the season. This is the main reason that prompted the owners and drivers to continue the racing programs at Connell Park.

Tree Booklet Now Available To The Public

Forest Commissioner Austin H. Wilkins announced today the publication of the 9th edition of "Forest Trees of Maine" and its availability to the public upon request to the Forestry Department in Augusta.

The publication contains a key for identifying Maine trees, illustrations and descriptions of protected species and poisonous species. The booklet also has a list of references to books giving more technical information, some "Forestry Facts", a history of all editions to date, a Social Register of Big Trees, and pages for notes.

The first edition of "Forest Trees" was in 1908. Over 30,000 copies of the eighth edition were printed in 1961. The booklet is the work of three members of the Forestry Department's Entomology Division.

Sulphuric acid, called the "king of chemicals," enters somewhere into the manufacture of every article we touch from cotton diapers to bronze caskets.

Inflation Hurts, But Farm Land Values Are Increasing

Inflation has hurt farmers more than it has most other groups in the economy, but farm land values have risen rapidly since 1947, according to a study published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston in its monthly Business Review.

Despite the harmful effects of inflation on farm earnings, farm land values have risen steadily and rapidly—in fact, they doubled from 1947 to 1962 and rose by a third since 1962. There is no single explanation for this paradoxical divergence between farm land values and farm earnings, the Bank said. Contributing causes include the desire of farmers to increase acreage for more efficient use of their farm equipment, the premium placed on farm land by Federal crop allotments, and a rising price trend that tends to be self-perpetuating.

Besides lowering the value of each dollar of income as it does for all income groups, inflation has also more seriously limited the rate of growth of the farmer's income and his relative share of total income. Since 1953 gross farm income has fallen from 3.8 to 1.9 per cent of Gross National Income.

The farmer has suffered a profit squeeze primarily because inflation has caused his production costs to rise steadily while prices for his output have remained relatively stable.

From 1953 to 1967, gross farm income increased $15 billion, nationally, but farm production cost rose $14 billion with net farm income improvement of only $1 billion. Rising steadily over the entire period, production cost in 1967 was 35 per cent higher than in 1953. Consequently production costs, which amounted to 62 per cent of gross farm income in 1953, represented 70 per cent of it by 1967. Over the same period, selling prices for farm products did not follow the same upward trend, but fluctuated rather widely, and, in 1967, they were at about the same level as they were in 1953.

The direct connection between inflation and production costs is to be

'Ability Counts' Contest Is Open To HS Students

The Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped announced today plans to sponsor its 6th Annual "Ability Counts" Contest for all Maine high school juniors and seniors.

Committee Chairman Joseph E.A. Cote said all students submitting a report on the theme: "What Every Employer Should Know About Handicapped Workers" would be eligible to win a three-day trip to Washington, D.C., plus a share in both state and national prizes.

Eight prizes will be awarded to Maine students, totalling $350 in U.S. Savings Bonds, with the first prize winner eligible to share in $2,500 in cash prizes in the nationwide competition sponsored by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

To participate, students are simply asked to investigate how handicapped workers in their communities are proving that "ability, not disability, counts." The survey report is limited to 750 words.

"We are pleased to note," said Mr. Cote, "that this contest again has been placed on the approved list of National Contests and Activities for the 1968-69 school year by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and, in turn, the Maine State Principals' Association."

Contest details contained in a special brochure have been mailed to principals of all secondary schools. Mr. Cote said. Deadline for all contest entries is January 31.

expected, and the significant questions is why farm product prices have not been more subject to inflation. The answer lies in three economic characteristics of the farm sector: farm products have been in chronically surplus supply; resources have not moved out of farming fast enough to correct surplus production, and the export market, with relatively low world prices for farm commodities, represents a more significant market for farm products than it does for the products of other industries. These factors have restricted the ability of farmers to pass their higher production costs on to consumers.

Despite the post-Korean conflict profit squeeze on farming operations, individual farmers have done better than the small rise in aggregate net farm income would indicate, the Bank said. Because many farmers—almost 40 per cent—have left farming over the last fifteen years, the average net income of those remaining has increased at about the same rate as the national average for all workers.

But neither has farm income risen as much as the above comparison for the products of other industries. These factors have restricted farm have increased substantially.

One measure of the farmer's increased efficiency is that, while total farm production costs rose 35 per cent between 1953 and 1967, production costs per unit of farm output rose only 28 per cent.

This increased efficiency has chiefly been the result of substituting capital for farm labor, the Bank said. If a ten percent return were assigned to farmers' increased capital investment — excluding the portion attributable to rising farm land values — the substitution of capital for farm labor would account for half the $2,400 increase in net income per farm since 1953.

Farm output prices probably will not keep up with general inflation until enough resources shift out of farming to improve substantially the present demand-supply imbalance, the Bank concluded.

Teachers To Conduct Annual Sessions In Portland Area

Educators at every level of instruction will meet in the Portland area Thursday and Friday for the 66th annual convention of the Maine Teachers Association. Dozens of instructional topics are on the agenda from kindergarten music to high school physics.

Organizational and professional problems of teachers will also receive attention. The MTA Representative Assembly will meet Thursday to vote on a proposal to disperse future conventions across the state to avoid the traffic and parking problems that have plagued centralized conventions in the past. The size of Maine's teaching force has doubled in the last 20 years to the present 11,000 and the annual teachers' gathering is the state's largest convention.

Teachers will also attend three meetings to discuss unification of membership in local, state, and national teachers organizations. School administrators, teachers, and school board members will meet in Gorham under the auspices of the University of Maine Bureau of Labor Education to discuss negotiations between teachers organizations and boards.

The convention opening general session has been split into three sections at locations outside Portland because of the traffic problem and because no building is available large enough to accommodate one session.

Dr. John B. Davis, Jr., superintendent of schools in Minneapolis, Minn., and a former executive secretary of the New England School Development Council, will speak at South Portland High School.

Dr. Leland B. Jacobs, professor of education,

Real Estate Board Plans Public Meeting

The Maine Real Estate Commission has announced that October 16, it will hold a public meeting in Presque Isle, at 2:00 p.m. in the ballroom of the Northeastland Hotel.

In making the announcement, Chairman W. Lester Hughes said, "The meeting will be open to the general public and licensed real estate brokers and salesmen alike. We hope to afford all people in Aroostook County the opportunity to meet with us and discuss any problems or complaints."

Also slated as topics for discussion are the effects of a recent change in real estate broker applicant educational requirements and the effects of the 14 rules and regulations adopted on August 26, 1968.

Teachers College, Columbia University, and an authority on children's literature, will speak at Warren G. Hill Gymnasium, Gorham State College.

Dr. Kenneth B. Hoyt, head of the Division of Counselor Education at the University of Iowa, will speak at Westbrook High School. He is a specialist on guidance of students who expect public schools to be direct preparation for employment.

Charles F. Bragg II, Bangor, chairman of the State Board of Education, will address teachers at Westbrook, Commissioner of Education William T. Logan, Jr., will speak at South Portland; and Deputy Commissioner of Education Kermit S. Nickerson will speak at Gorham State College.

Presiding officers will be Philip A. Gonyar of Bangor, MTA president, at Westbrook; Supt. Lloyd D. Hatfield of South Portland, MTA president-elect, at South Portland; Miss Geneva Kirk of Lewiston, MTA vice-president, at Gorham State College.

The three meetings will open at 9:30 a.m. with concerts by the brass, string, and woodwind quartets of Music in Maine.

First convention activity will be the opening of exhibits of textbooks and educational supplies Wednesday evening at the Exposition Hall and King Junior High School in Portland.

SOCIAL SECURITY

A representative of the area Social Security office will maintain hours at the Red Cross Chapter Room in Portland on Wednesday, October 9, between 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Kelley Retires From B&A After 44-Year Service

A Bangor and Aroostook Railroad executive retired today after 44 years of service with the road, Earl H. Kelley, of Bangor, has retired as general auditor of the railroad. He began his career as a ticket clerk in 1924. He will be succeeded in the post by Owen J. Gould, also of Bangor, who has been named controller. A former Presque Isle man, Ronald Condon, becomes general auditor.

Mr. Kelley has held various positions in the road's accounting department. He has been chief claims adjuster, freight claims agent and assistant to the general auditor. He was made assistant general auditor in 1955 and general auditor in 1966. He is a member and former director of the National Association of Accountants and the Tarratine Club. Mr. Kelley is married and has five children.

Mr. Gould, 41, is a native of Milo and was educated in Milo schools and the Bentley College of Accounting and Finance. He joined the railroad as an accountant in 1952 and later became general tax accountant and assistant general auditor. Prior to his railroad service he was employed by the Columbian National Life Insurance Company. He is a veteran of Navy service in WWII. Gould is married and has seven children.

Mr. Condon, 28, is a native of Presque Isle and was educated in Presque Isle schools and at Huson College. He joined the railroad as invoice clerk in 1963 and has since been valuation accountant, statistical clerk and tax accountant. He is married and has two children.

Minimum Wage For Some Will Be Increased

The Maine minimum wage requirements for most businesses with four or more employees will be changed on October 15 from $1.40 an hour ($1.05 for students under 19) to $1.50 an hour ($1.12½ for students). The rate for hospitals and nursing homes will go from $1.25 to $1.40. There will be no change in the overtime requirements.

There are a number of exemptions to the Maine law, including agriculture, domestic service, outside salesmen, taxicab drivers, the fishing industry, and dependents of the employer. Also exempt are executive, administrative and professional employees who are paid on a salary basis of not less than $100 weekly starting October 15. The salary requirement prior to that date has been $90.

In addition, exempt from overtime requirements only are perishable food processors, nursing homes, hospitals, hotels, motels, and restaurants.

In determining the wages of service employees who receive at least $20 monthly in tips, the employer may make an allowance for tips not to exceed 50 per cent of the applicable minimum wage. Thus, after October 15, waitresses, bellhops and other service employees must be paid wages of at least 75 cents an hour (56 cents for students under 19), and more where tips are not sufficient to make up the difference.

It should be pointed out that many businesses are subject also to the requirements of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act and any employer who is subject to both the Maine and Federal laws must comply with whichever standard is higher.

Additional information may be obtained from the Department of Labor and Industry at the State House in Augusta.

Gospellers Will Sing In Woodstock

The popular singing group from Fredericton, N.B. known as the Gospellers, will appear at the United Baptist Church Main street, Woodstock, Sunday, October 6 at 7 p.m. Atlantic Time.

The public is invited to hear the Gospel singing and testimonies.

The pastor of the church, Dr. R.C. McCormack, will be bringing a brief Gospel message.

Summer Abroad Has Rare Memories For Fr. Skehan

For Rev. James W. Skehan, S.J., a native of Houlton, it was a summer he will never forget.

The chairman of the Boston College Department of Geology and Geophysics spent a good part of his summer in Czechoslovakia until he was evicted from the country.

He was not alone, for he was with some 3,200 international scientists attending the world-wide Geological Congress meetings in Prague.

From August 10-17, Fr. Skehan was in the eastern region of Slovakia on geological field trips through the mining district of Banska Stavnika. This predominantly Catholic region gave some insight into the liberalizing of attitudes in the country in the last nine months.

In the cities of this eastern European country one could see the changes just by looking in shop windows and at the number of cars in the street.

In the rural areas, however, the changes were deeper. They were in the form of religious freedom.

The Czechs have lived in fear of following their religion for 20 years. They have followed a church in exile. Catholics were unable to attend the same church two weeks in a row for fear they would be spotted and reported by secret police. Those who refused to become members of the Communist Party because of its ideological conflict with Catholicism have suffered in their work and sacrificed promotions.

Prior to January of this year the seminaries were tightly restricted. Most were closed down. Those that remained open allowed no more than one or two students a year to start studies. Nobody knows how many priests have been ordained in recent years.

"I was astonished," Fr. Skehan said, "Despite the many problems which faced Catholics who wished to practice their religion, every town had its church and almost every crossroad its grotto or shrine."

Since January more than 100 seminarians have been allowed to start studies, priests have had charges dropped that were placed against them, and six bishops have been reinstated.

In many of the towns visited by the Jesuit geologist he went looking for the rectory to find the priests. In most cases the rectory was vacant or nonexistent.

Just the day before the occupation of Czechoslovakia by Warsaw Pact troops, an historic meeting took place between six Czechoslovakian bishops and the country's president, Ludvik Svoboda. At this meeting the first since the Communist takeover in 1943, the prelates agreed to aid in the development of the country.

Many of the reforms were just taking effect when the Russians started to thwart the liberalization processes of the Svoboda-Dubcek-Cernik government. Most of the reforms are now uncertain.

On August 19, Fr. Skehan left Kosice in Slovakia and flew to Prague where, two days later he witnessed the invasion of the Warsaw Pact troops. In his own words:

"I was staying at the International Hotel, a former Russian Army barracks. The first day of the International Geological Congress included the customary and welcoming addresses from the Lord Mayor of Prague and Mr. Cernik, the premier. On August 20 we got down to work.

"The night of the 20th I spent a sleepless night due to the rumbling of heavy trucks in the street below. It was only the following morning at 6:30 a.m. when I went to the lobby that I learned the country had been invaded.

"Hotel guests soon assembled in the lobby to watch the activity on television. Within a few hours the television stations were off the air. Soon after that Radio Free Bratislava reported that the doors to the studio were being broken down and they would have to leave the air. The final selection on the program was a funeral dirge.

"The people remained calm. The key to the resistance was communication. Everybody had a transistor radio and Radio Free Prague continued to broadcast from a number of locations. Every hour or so there would be a report of another factory where the workers had voted continued support for the Svoboda-Dubcek-Cernik government.

"I was not afraid at any time. What I felt was tingling sensation as I walked past tanks and soldiers carrying submachine guns."

The XXIII International Geological Congress was disrupted and when word came that the building being used for meetings would be occupied that afternoon, the congress came to an end.

Embassies advised foreign visitors to leave the country as soon as possible. Russia's Pravda had suggested liquidation for some 40,000 Czech intellectuals. There was no choice but to leave.

"I know some very fine Russian scientists," Fr. Skehan said, "but the Russian politicians are animals."

The Boston College professor left the occupied country with the highest praise for the Czechs. "They are the most hospitable people I have met -- and they have warm personalities, they are highly organized and they have a desire to do everything right."

As the foreign scientists boarded the trains to leave, the Czechs called after them -- "tell all that you have seen here."

What used to be generally thought of as the office or shop "girl" is today a 40-year-old married woman, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. That's the average woman worker. Of all U. S. women between the ages of 18 and 64, nearly half, or 48.3 percent, were in the labor force in May 1968.

Farm Ponds Boost Value

Maine Conservationists have increased real estate values estimated at over 11 million dollars by building farm ponds. Nearly a third of Maine's 10,815 soil and water conservation district cooperators and their families have built a farm pond.

Residents in rural and urban areas, farmers, wildlife enthusiasts, and many other types of soil and water conservation district cooperators, have built nearly 100 ponds each year over the past 30 years. These ponds range in size from a quarter acre to several hundred surface acres. Soil and water conservation district cooperators have actually built about as many ponds as Maine has natural lakes and ponds. Maine has approximately 2500 natural lakes and ponds and district cooperators have built 2755 farm ponds.

These ponds serve many purposes and are nearly always designed for multiple use. Fire protection, skating, swimming, stock water, waterfowl areas, irrigation, aesthetics, and fishing are the more common uses people make of farm ponds. Last year Maine's 16 soil and water conservation district boards of supervisors in cooperation with the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Game, the Department of Interior Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, and the USDA, Soil Conservation Service, stocked over 339 farm ponds with brook trout. Most farm pond owners obtain trout from private or government sources every two years to stock their ponds.

Donald T. Dinsmore, State Conservationist, reports that some spring fed farm ponds support a self-sustaining trout fishery. These ponds require only a single stocking of fish.

Dinsmore went on to say that the USDA, Soil Conservation Service provided engineering assistance to Maine's Soil and Water Conservation Districts in building the 2755 farm ponds. Building farm ponds pays many dividends. Dinsmore points out. It helps conserve water. Holding water in the upper reaches of a drainage basin helps make an important contribution towards recharging upland ground water tables. Each farm pond also helps a little to hold back flood waters which create costly downstream flood problems. Thousands of Maine people annually use farm ponds for many different types of recreational pleasures. Farm ponds have supplied water used for saving hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of buildings in Maine. Aesthetically and from a wildlife point of view, farm ponds are like little jewels in the country side.

Farm ponds vary in their cost but usually run from 300 to 500 dollars for a quarter acre pond to over $100,000 for a several hundred acre lake.

We're one-fifth Rambler, and all the rest is new.

There was a time when all we made were Ramblers.

And, those Ramblers made our image. With the predictable result that we got a reputation for building dependable, little cars that were high on economy and low on sex appeal.

We still make the Rambler. It's a smarter buy than it ever was. But it's no Javelin. When American Motors can build a hot, sporty car that out-ports the other sporty cars, that's news.

So far, more than 45,000 sporty-car drivers have decided that the Javelin is a better car for the money.

The Ambassador SST 4-door sedan is our luxury car. It comes with standard air-conditioning, standard V-8, standard automatic transmission, optional velour seats, a long, long wheelbase for an elegant limousine ride, and an astonishingly low price for the package.

We also make the Rebel.

The Rebel is the family car that dared to cross the treacherous Baja peninsula. Most of the specially equipped cars that start this trip never finish. The Rebel did.

But, if anything changes our image, it will be the AMX, our two-seater sports car. The AMX, specially equipped and modified, has set 106 American, national and international speed records.

At this point, it looks like our image will never survive.

Tourism Up 10 Per Cent For Maine

Tourism in Maine for the 12 months of 1968 will be at a minimum of 10 per cent over that of 1967, Director Robert Elliot of Vacation-Travel Division, Maine Department of Economic Development, said today.

Mr. Elliot qualified his statement by saying, "this is State-wide business from all sources and although there may be weak points and certain low periods of business, the majority of tourism connected businesses gained by at least this 10 per cent figure."

Maine public parks attendance figures through the end of August reached 1,301,679, while during a similar period in 1967 parks were used by 1,120,000 people. The Maine Publicity Bureau's information centers were ahead by 13 per cent during July, while during August use of the information centers increased 20 per cent over the previous year.

Interstate bridge traffic in July this year was 901,704 while in the preceding year of the same month it reached 884,259. During August traffic increased additionally to 955,910, compared to the figure of 853,599 for August 1967.

"Exceptionally fine weather from early July to late September, the lack of competition from Montreal's Expo 67, and we hope the increased efforts of DED in advertising and promotional campaigns, have favorably affected tourism by more than this 10 per cent figure through the end of August," Elliot said. With a continued good fall and winter season, the final figures for 1968 should go well above this modest 10 per cent figure.

Everett F. Groaton, former travel consultant for the Department, estimated that 3,150,000 visitors spent an estimated 348 million dollars for all purposes Statewide in the 12 months of 1967.

Mr. Elliot estimates a 10 per cent increase over the 1967 figures, both in number of visitors and dollars for the 1968 season.

State To Open Bids For Interstate Spur To Lincoln Area

Bids will be opened by the State Highway Commission next Wednesday, for the first stage in the construction of a connecting link between the Lincoln area and Interstate 95.

The first project will carry out grading operations on new location for approaches to the future bridge site at the Penobscot River. The westerly section will extend 0.6 of a mile between Route 116 and the river. The easterly section will extend 0.9 of a mile between U. S. Route 2 and the bridge site.

The next SMC construction program is expected to include funds for the seven-span bridge which will carry the new access road across the river.

The present contract calls for grading and shaping the roadbed, installation of necessary drainage pipes and culverts, and the building up of a thick layer of gravel. A separate project, to be awarded at a later date, will place a high-type pavement on the graded sections to a width of 24 feet. The completed highway will have 8-foot gravel shoulders.

Area - Wide Cooperation

Area towns are again looking to Houlton for leadership in the current problem of providing adequate ambulance service. The Houlton Town Council has been informed that Dunn's Funeral Home will not supply ambulance service beyond February 1, a move that was not unexpected and one that is becoming increasingly more common throughout the State.

Surprisingly enough, Council has taken immediate steps to meet the problem. Sparked by Dr. John B. Madigan, a Council member, a group has been checking into several possibilities, and it would seem that the situation is well in hand.

The need for ambulance service, of course, is one for the entire area, and not just Houlton. However, it must be Houlton that provides the leadership, the personnel and most of the funds that will be required. Just what will be involved in the way of personnel, and funds, has yet to be determined, but considerable progress has already been made.

An area-wide ambulance corps, that would be headquartered in Houlton, is an absolute necessity. Perhaps it is for this reason that immediate steps were taken once it was learned that private service would soon be discontinued. In any event, it was a refreshing development.

Houlton, whether it likes it or not, must supply the impetus and leadership for the Southern Aroostook area. The ambulance corps is but one example of what this leadership can demand, and the success that may be forthcoming from area-wide cooperation could be very good omen for the future.

Candidate Wallace

(Christian Science Monitor)

The phenomenon of Alabama's George Wallace continues to explode in frontpage headlines and to jeopardize earlier political predictions. As the campaign progresses, more Americans are giving attention to what Mr. Wallace stands for, to his character and his methods, to the issues he raises.

Indeed they should. This third-party advocate of hard-line approaches may corral one-fifth of the presidential vote - perhaps more as and if disturbances break out on the campaign trail and the college campus.

"They say I'm popular 'cause I'm saying what the people want to hear," says George Wallace. At least, what some perplexed and worried people want to hear. He relies, basically and heavily on the "law and order" issue. His highest strength is in the Deep South, but he appeals to a growing number of blue collar workers - who through hard work have recently won their homes and community respectability. And he appeals to others of the middle class, the suburbanites, the rural folk - those who have watched with mounting dismay the breaches of public order, the national mood of permissiveness, the abuse hurled at the police and the candidates, the efforts of Washington to compel local schools and communities to desegregate, and what many see as the departure from strict constitutionalism to compel local schools and communities to desegregate, and what many see as the a useful service in articulating, in bringing to the surface, the deep apprehensions which the "silent Americans" - and some not so silent - feel and fear. He has proved that millions are profoundly disgusted with the disrupting militants in university or ghetto, with the unwashed among the hippies, with coddled criminals, and with Washington when it is in its "bureaucracy knows best" mood.

But those who criticize and indeed fear the Wallace phenomenon argue that his remedies are too brutally simple, that they suggest physical retribution too often, that they breed hate and suspicion when American needs, above all, conciliation and compassion. And that, though Mr. Wallace denies racism, he would move very slowly on the civil-rights front, very slowly to correct those age-old injustices on which black militancy feeds. The critics maintain that not all intellectuals are leftists, that most courts do jail criminals, that black militants are a small minority, and that there are other crucial issues besides "law and order."

The president of the United States must command experience, wisdom, insight, care. He is custodian of the awesome decision to use or avoid nuclear weapons. He determines relations with that other superpower. He decides when and how to ward off inflation and dollar devaluation. Every presidential candidate, including George Wallace, must be severely measured by the electorate, as to his capacity to make the most profound and crucial decisions governing America's safety and destiny.

Welcome To Xanadu

By Dorene L. MacLroy, Asst. Lib.
Cary Free Public Library

Doris Mae Winter was 16 when the stranger with the bright blue eyes offered her a lift in his pickup truck. Her reaction to the discovery that she was being kidnapped was characteristically practical - she suggested that if he had designs on her virtue they'd better stop and get it over with as comfortably as possible!

An unusual girl, Doris Mae Winter. Her father, beaten down by years of unproductive farming on the arid land of the Southwest, took out his frustration on Doris Mae and her mother. Her mother, never forgetting that she had been meant for better things than being the wife of a dirt farmer, used her sharp tongue to make life miserable for the family.

Doris Mae smartened up early: she learned to shut her mouth and her ears and to take what was handed out, unfair or not, but all the time she knew there was more to life than this.

Her captor, Leonard Hatch, had recently escaped from an asylum back East. A domineering mother had shaped his destiny early in life; at school they had called him "Booby" Hatch, and the boy had lived more and more in books and in his imagination. An unsuccessful marriage had been his breaking point, and now, thwarted in his plans for revenge on the wife who had had him committed, his is only one step ahead of his pursuers.

Doris Mae and Leonard were together only a few days, but each left an imprint on the other's life. For Doris Mae it was an awakening and a beginning. For Leonard it was a quick glimpse of the one thing that had escaped him all through life.

"Welcome to Xanadu" is both sad and funny; it is a departure for its author, Nathaniel Benchley, and he has done it well. Doris Mae and Leonard are unusual characters, and "Welcome to Xanadu" is an unusual book.

'LET'S TALK !'

Washington Highlights The Fortas Case

By Ray Vernon

It is proven once again in the Abe Fortas controversy now raging in the United States Senate that memories can be extremely short in this town.

One of the more frequently heard arguments why Justice Fortas should be approved as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is that he is the President's choice and the President should not be denied this choice.

Those who use this argument choose not to give the same weight to the equally important proposition that the Senate has the Constitutional right to advise and consent on all Presidential appointments of this nature.

This means the Constitution has given the Senate an undeniable go ahead to question Presidential appointments to whatever extent it wishes. There is nothing in the Constitution which demands that the Senate rubber stamp these appointments simply because they are made by the President.

Delicate Balance

This is part of the delicate balance of power - the checks and balances - which has sustained the Republic for these many years. Three branches of government with no one branch more powerful than the other.

President Johnson, of course, has not publicly come out and demanded that the Senate approve Mr. Fortas. But those who are determined that the nomination be approved are quite clear where they stand - the Senate must accede to the President's wishes.

Here's where we come to the part about short memories in Washington. Listen to these words:

"A man elevated to the office of the Presidency has virtually unlimited powers of influence over his countrymen. His own personality is a force of great impact upon all the people of the nation and, in fact, upon the people of the world. Add to those powers directly all those less-conspicuous powers of his aides, his administrative agencies, and the multitude of channels which feel his influence, and you have a force no other representative government has ever entrusted for long to one man.

"If on occasion you grant to this titular head of government the further intoxicant of an overwhelming majority of loyal supporters in the legislative branch, then you have a force well-nigh irresistible. The distinctions between executive and legislative are difficult to preserve under such circumstances; mere memorandums become laws, and laws become mere memorandums."

The man who spoke these words on March 9, 1949, emphasizing the right and duty of the Senate to exercise its judgment independent of the executive branch of government was a young Texas senator named Lyndon B. Johnson.

In all the years the Senate has fulfilled its right to pass on Presidential appointments it has rejected only eight out of 564 for Cabinet posts. The last time this happened was in 1959 when the Senate was under the leadership of, you guessed it, Lyndon Johnson.

On that occasion the Senate refused to confirm the nomination of Admiral Lewis Strauss to be Secretary of Commerce under President Eisenhower.

Admiral Strauss had served with distinction and dedication under three Presidents. He had been decorated by both the Army and the Navy. As a member of the Atomic Energy Commission under President Truman he had much to say about the development of the hydrogen bomb at a time some persons were counseling against such a weapon.

Admiral Strauss' gravest sin was that he was a controversial figure. As chairman of the AEC he had antagonized some powerful men in the opposition party.

Long Fight

The Senate fight over Strauss' nomination dragged on for weeks and months. Never was his patriotism or his qualifications questioned as they have not been in Justice Fortas' case.

Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee tells what happened: "The majority leader at that time, Senator Johnson, had not publicly announced his position prior to the roll call and he never explained it afterward. There were suggestions at the time that the majority leader's opposition was for no other reason than to gain liberal support in his bid for the 1960 presidential nomination."

This perhaps is another one of those strange parallels of history.

President Eisenhower, for all his popularity, was forced to accede to the wishes of the Senate and withdrew the name of Lewis Strauss.

History may shortly repeat itself when the Senate again turns down a Presidential nomination as it appears it will do in the case of Abe Fortas.

You're Cornered

with Marshall Hammond

You miss me?

We're back after a nine-month tour with the Houlton Regional Development Corporation. Back to our first love.

It seemed nice, after some 20 years of banging a typewriter to try some other form of work, but it also seems nice to be back "home". We're not sure, however, whether our brief stint with HRDC simply whetted the appetite, or got the wanderlust out of the system.

Anyway, it's nice to be back with you again.

*****

This time around we're trying a new title for the column. Our only concern was the preposition - whether it should be with, or by. It seems that to use by, might make it sound a little too beligerent.

*****

Normally the only way we know when hunting season opens is being told by friends, but this year is a different story. Our youngest son, who is reasonably well into his teens, has discovered the fun of hunting, and of course, of firing a rifle.

To many this would be very routine, and an expected step in the development of a boy. But to a father who has never owned a gun, has never fired anything larger than a .22, this comes as quite a challenge.

With us there is an inherent fear of firearms, and an inherent desire to protect the children. It seems, at first, almost inconsistent that you can give your son a gun without completely compromising your fears and desires.

It also seems, after a bit, that hunting answers a very basic desire of man, and that boys and guns have gone together for generations without undue consequence. Having your young son out in the woods in pursuit of birds perhaps is much more right than wrong.

LBJ - Asset And Liability

Washington, D.C. - President Johnson holds a unique position in the political campaign because he is the biggest asset of both Hubert Humphrey and Richard Nixon, and he is also Humphrey's greatest liability.

LBJ is an asset to his fellow Democrats because until January 20 Johnson will be running the country. A president has immense power to influence events, and certainly Johnson will use it as long as he occupies the White House. Even if Johnson obtains from campaigning, he can help Humphrey a thousand different ways.

Consider the matter of money, of which the Democratic National Committee now has a short supply. President Johnson has wooed the top sources of political dollars for years. If he chooses to spend a few hours on the telephone as a fund-raiser, results should be forthcoming.

Why should a fat cat contribute to the Humphrey campaign, when the odds are it will be a losing effort? There are a number of reasons, headed by the fact that Humphrey might win. The top men of the corporations receiving huge government contracts are fair game for political fund raisers of both sides. Some will give to both parties to insure being on the winning side.

LBJ's Position Also Helps Nixon

President Johnson is an asset to Nixon because Johnson's popularity is at low ebb right now. Every Vietnam casualty list and every riot in city streets tends to increase dissatisfaction with the current administration and attract votes to the "outs".

Republicans are in the minority in this country, and have been for decades. The only way a GOP presidential candidate can win is to capture a sizable number of votes from Democrats and independents. That happens only when the majority party is in disfavor.

President Johnson is also an asset to Nixon because the heir-apparent has been so intimately associated with the administration for the past four years. Nixon found out in 1960 what a handicap it is to try to move up from the vice presidency. A vice president cannot disassociate himself from the record of his leader.

The fact that Humphrey has been such a voluble defender of the Johnson Administration, before becoming a candidate, is bound to hurt him now that he is trying to be his own man. The historical record cannot be erased, and the opposition has a nasty habit of spotlighting every contradiction.

Humphrey Contradicted

The vice president's problem in overcoming his administration ties was demonstrated three times in his first week on the campaign trail. The President, the Secretary of State, and the Secretary of Defense each found it necessary to contradict statements made by Humphrey, and in one case the candidate had to issue a retraction.

It must seem to Humphrey at times that he has as much to fear from his friends as from his enemies. No matter how much he yearns to strike off in his own direction, he is risking being tripped up by his own associates in Washington.

Fortunately, the Vice President is an eternal optimist. It is against his nature to brood for long over his misfortunes. He can be counted on to forget about his liabilities and cultivate his assets as the campaign progresses.

Sunday Sermon

LOADED DOWN WITH BENEFITS

Have you forgotten the benefits of the Lords? Do you recount what He has done in your life, how He has answered prayer, how He has heard in time of distress and sorrow, how He has delivered you out of that hard place when you were pressed to the limit?

Psalm 68:19 says He loads us daily with benefits—just make us bow down under the load of blessings.

Murmuring and faultfinding can become so general we are sometimes like the farmer who had a good crop. He was a grumbler, but he thought surely he would have nothing to grumble about now. They said, "You've a wonderful crop haven't you?"

"Oh, yes," he replied. "It was good - but it was terribly hard on the soil!"

Then there was a woman who had a good potato crop. They told her, "Oh, what beautiful, big potatoes you have."

"Yes," was the answer, "but there's no little ones left for the pigs."

The devil would silence our lips, but we should make him hear our praises. The Bible commands, "Be ye thankful," Oh, let us praise the Lord who inhabits the praises of His people.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Newspaper ads. Magazine ads. Catalogs and brochures. This is where sales get started. This is where people turn to ferret out the facts which allow an intelligent buying decision.

People can linger with a printed page: two minutes, five minutes, ten. They can come back to it again and again. They can compare one product with another. They can study styles, features, sizes, prices at their own pace. They can rip out a printed ad, save it, show it to friends, make notes on it, clip coupons. They can and they do. Don't you?

If you've something to sell, it will pay to promote it in print - where people on the brink of buying can get their hands on it. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

WHEREAS, George F. MacDonald, of Masardis in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, by his mortgage deed dated the eighteenth day of November, 1947, and recorded in the Southern District of the Aroostook Registry of Deeds in Volume 584, Page 249, conveyed to Newell D. Smith, of Ashland in said County and State, the following described real estate, to wit:

A certain piece or parcel of land, together with the buildings thereon, situated in said Masardis in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, being a part of lot numbered twenty-seven (27) in said Masardis, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at the northeast corner of said lot numbered twenty-seven (27); thence south along the line of the Ashland-Masardis Road, so called, to the northeast corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Glenn Porter; thence west along the north line of said Porter land to the right of way of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad; thence north along the right of way of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad to the south line of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Clair Pollard; thence east along the south line of said Pollard land to the place of beginning.

And, also, a certain piece or parcel of land situated in said Masardis in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at the southwest corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Clair Pollard; thence south along the line of the Ashland-Masardis Road, so called, to the northwest corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Fred Greenlaw; thence east along the north line of said Greenlaw land for a distance of one (1) mile to a stake and stone; thence north to the northeast corner of said Pollard land; thence west along the south line of said Pollard land to the place of beginning. Containing eighty (80) acres, more or less.

AND WHEREAS, the said Newell D. Smith, by his deed of assignment dated July 26, 1968, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds in Volume 1030, Page 702, assigned and conveyed to Keith H. MacDonald said mortgage, the debt thereby secured, and all right, title, and interest in the premises therein described, acquired under and by virtue thereof.

AND WHEREAS, the conditions of said mortgage have been broken.

NOW, THEREFORE, by reason of the breach of said conditions, the said Keith H. MacDonald claims a foreclosure of said mortgage and gives this public notice for that purpose.

Dated at Fort Fairfield, Maine, this twelfth day of September, 1968.

Foreign purchases of American goods make jobs for 2.5 million American workers. Four out of 100 jobs in all U. S. private enterprise depend upon exports. The numbers increase to six out of 100 in manufacturing, 10 out of 100 in mining, and 11 out of 100 in farming.

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

☐ Shrewd? ☐ Safe? ☐ Patriotic? ☐ Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes.

Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year.

There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America.

Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares. You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers.

And, as you help yourself by buying Freedom Shares, you're also helping your country. Sign up for Freedom. Get all the facts from the payroll people where you work or any officer where you bank.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Newspaper ads. Magazine ads. Catalogs and brochures. This is where sales get started. This is where people turn to ferret out the facts which allow an intelligent buying decision.

People can linger with a printed page: two minutes, five minutes, ten. They can come back to it again and again. They can compare one product with another. They can study styles, features, sizes, prices at their own pace. They can rip out a printed ad, save it, show it to friends, make notes on it, clip coupons. They can and they do. Don't you? If you've something to sell, it will pay to promote it in print - where people on the brink of buying can get their hands on it. Print makes sense because print makes sales.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE

WHEREAS, George F. MacDonald, of Masardis in the County of Aroostook and a State of Maine, by his mortgage deed dated the eighteenth day of November, 1947, and recorded in the Southern District of the Aroostook Registry of Deeds in Volume 584, Page 249, conveyed to Newell D. Smith, of Ashland in said County and State, the following described real estate, to wit:

A certain piece or parcel of land, together with the buildings thereon, situated in said Masardis in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, being a part of lot numbered twenty-seven (27) in said Masardis, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at the northeast corner of said lot numbered twenty-seven (27); thence south along the line of the Ashland-Masardis Road, so called, to the northeast corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Glenn Porter; thence west along the north line of said Porter land to the right of way of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad; thence north along the right of way of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad to the line of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Clair Pollard; thence east along the south line of said Pollard land to the place of beginning.

And, also, a certain piece or parcel of land situated in said Masardis in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Commencing at the southwest corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Clair Pollard, thence south along the line of the Ashland-Masardis Road, so called, to the northwest corner of land now or formerly owned or occupied by Fred Greenlaw; thence east along the north line of said Greenlaw land for a distance of one (1) mile to a stake and stone; thence north to the northeast corner of said Pollard land; thence west along the south line of said Pollard land to the place of beginning. Containing eighty (80) acres, more or less.

AND WHEREAS, the said Newell D. Smith, by his deed of assignment dated July 26, 1968, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds in Volume 1030, Page 702, assigned and conveyed to Keith H. MacDonald said mortgage, the debt thereby secured, and all right, title, and interest in the premises therein described, acquired under and by virtue thereof.

AND WHEREAS, the conditions of said mortgage have been broken.

NOW, THEREFORE, by reason of the breach of said conditions, the said Keith H. MacDonald claims a foreclosure of said mortgage and gives this public notice for that purpose.

Deed at Fort Fairfield, Maine, this twelfth day of September, 1968.

Foreign purchases of American goods make jobs for 2.5 million American workers. Four out of 100 jobs in all U. S. private enterprise depend upon exports. The numbers increase to six out of 100 in manufacturing, 10 out of 100 in mining, and 11 out of 100 in farming.

What kind of investment is Freedom Shares?

☐ Shrewd? ☐ Safe? ☐ Patriotic? ☐ Exclusive?

You're right if you checked all four boxes. Freedom Shares are a shrewd investment because they pay 4.74% when held to maturity. They mature in just four-and-a-half years, and are redeemable after one year.

There is no safer investment because Freedom Shares are backed by The United States of America.

Exclusive? Absolutely. Not everyone can buy new Freedom Shares. You have to belong to the Bond-a-Month or Payroll Savings Plan. Freedom Shares are a bonus opportunity for these regular Bond buyers.

Annual Meeting Of Maine CofC Is At Portland

Maine business leaders will visit the Portland campus of the University of Maine October 24 for the 79th annual meeting of the Maine State Chamber of Commerce.

Choice of the meeting site is in keeping with efforts of the State Chamber to promote a closer relationship between Maine's business interests and its educational community, and in line with the trend of the past few years when the Chamber's annual meeting has been held at other college campuses.

The October session will provide businessmen an opportunity to tour the facilities of what is probably the fastest growing educational institution in the state.

A business meeting has been scheduled for 4 p.m. It will include the "State of the State" address of Francis T. Finnegan, Augusta, president of the Maine State Chamber, a forecast of legislation affecting Maine business by Robert A. Marden, Waterville, Chamber legislative counsel; a report of 1968 Chamber activities; and election of officers.

The business session will be followed by a dinner at UMP. An after-dinner highlight will be the presentation of the Chamber's annual Industrial Achievement Award to an outstanding Maine firm.

Recreation Area Taking Shape

According to George Ritchie, Conservation technician for our office, the recreation project on G.G. McIntosh farm in Houlton is taking shape. He is finishing the wooden dam and has the second pond full of water. Mr. McIntosh plans to have 50 camp sites ready for use next summer.

Technical assistance on this project has been provided by the Southern Aroostook Soil and Water Conservation District and the Aroostook County Extension Service.

Another camping area may take shape next spring in the Smyrna Mills area. Ray Delong is planning to develop an area on his farm if everything works out for him. We feel the recreation business is one we need to develop here in Aroostook and we are glad to see these District Cooperators taking steps in that direction.

State Employees Meet Tuesday

The next regular meeting of the Southern Aroostook Chapter of the Maine State Employees Association will be held at the Gentle Memorial Building October 8th at 7:30 p.m.

State Employees' Executive Director, Peter M. Damberg will be the guest speaker and will discuss Association activities and proposed legislation.

It is also anticipated that Association President-Elect, Philmont Davis will be in attendance. Both will be available to answer questions concerning the Association and its relationship to the individual employee.

New State employees who haven't yet joined the Association, will find the meeting an excellent opportunity to learn more about this group.

The trouble with the chronic borrower is that he always keeps everything but his word.
